Mrs. Joel R. Adams

Claremont

Mississippi

Mar. 3. 1918.

My dearest Mother,

Just a little note this morning to see if I can still talk english. I have been assigned to a French Battery that is on the front and am learning very much real artillery. I have so far been with the division of an groupe commander who is in charge of 3 Batteries.

So you see we live very high but one of the officers only can speak a little english.

So most of our conversation is in French but even yet I do not speak it fluently.

My orderly will arrive to-day with 2. saddle horses for me. I sent him back to my battery <sup>the day before</sup> yesterday to get a horse. I hope to go back to my battery that is also at the front in a month. I like the life fine up here. Last night everything was quiet until half past two and in one second it sounded like every thing broke loose and the Germans made an attack but without any success whatever.

Give my love to all and remember how much I love you my dear Mother.

Your devoted son,
Boyce.
